

School Gardening Workshops

Wednesday, August 27, 2008

Nina Brackett talks to several KUSD and KAOL schoolteachers Saturday at the Arizona Cooperative Extension Office during a School Gardening Workshop.

The workshop, presented Saturday by Brackett and Gerald Olsen, gave teachers advice on covering agriculture and related topics in the classroom and provided teachers with three hours of Continued Education Credits.

The Extension Office will also be providing other ways for teachers to participate in school gardening workshops like this one.

Teachers can participate in a mini-workshop starting the first Thursday of each month from 5:30-6:30 p.m. Brackett said she will hold workshops free of charge at school campuses with at least six participating teachers.

Brackett also explained that the Extension Office will be providing an expanded school gardening program from preschool to 12th grade. For more information on the gardening workshops, e-mail Brackett at ninab@cals.arizona.edu.
